● Alexander the Great, starting from Macedonia with 30,000 warriors, conquered the world. His army, originally composed of sturdy Macedonian soldiers, formed the backbone of his brilliant campaigns and made it possible for him to crush the mighty empires of Asia. A strong, well organized Macedonia will serve as the backbone of the modern Greek state also. The vast reclamation works now being undertaken, and the permanent establishment of hardy refugees on the reclaimed lands will eventually create a civilization in that historic land which will augur well for the entire Greek nation. A powerful Macedonia will insure the security of Greece.

Dr. George Sotiriades, Macedonian Archaeologist, Historian, and First Rector of Salonica University

Recreation and Reclamation in Macedonia

By DR. GEORGE E. WHITE
President of Anatolia College

In the clear dawn of a perfect spring morning a group of persons connected with Anatolia College gathered on the campus for an all-day excursion. We were invited guests of the great Foundation Company, and were to visit and view the vast reclamation works on which the Company is engaged in the broad valley of the Vardar River. The sun was just rising over Mount Hortiati and the seal of the College appropriately shows the sun rising over a mountain, with the motto "The Morning Cometh." All who know Greek words know that Anatolia means "The Land of the Sunrise." The weather in Macedonia this morning of our excursion recalled the remark of the British Consul General in Salonica, "This is Riviera weather." The American Foundation Company, with headquarters in New York and London, is a great institution, and Major Ross is the able director of its enterprise in Macedonia. The Major had given two lectures in the College on what the Company was doing in the Vardar Valley, and had provided two other lectures by able Greek engineers on the reclamation project. Then ten students, selected by competitive composition tests, seven teachers and two honorary guests were invited to join in this 200 kilometer ride.

It was a wonderful experience. Imagine a huge triangle of land some 50 miles on each side, with the Thessalonika and Berea of classic history and of St. Paul at the base angles, and the Vardar River, after breaking through the mountain wall farther north straggling across the great triangle from the peak to the base line, which rests on the Aegean coast. The Gallicos and the Haliacmon Rivers clip the eastern and western edges of the territory, and the Ludias, partly left and partly right, struggles with the swamps and sandbars between Pella, the old Macedonian capital, and Aegean sea water. The whole region consists of land and water mixed with marshy lakes, swampy streams and unsteady seas. Cultivation of the land is so uncertain as to be practically abandoned. The war cemeteries are seen here and there on the hill slopes near, with their long rows of white crosses.

Can such land, can this area of more than half a million acres, be redeemed and turned into truck farms to help feed 300,000 or more people in the commercial metropolis of Salonica? Major Ross says some firms thought the Greeks were down not to rise but the Foundation Company had confidence and undertook the $25,000,000 reclamation project. What is the actual plan? Sluggish streams and seasonal floods are to be controlled by dredging channels and raising embankments; the soil is to be dried out, but with provision for irrigation in case of excessive drought; the mosquito must go and carry his load of malaria germs into oblivion; refugee laborers must have work; good roads must be built; Macedonia's new settlers must find land for homesteads; so help fill the bread baskets and dairy dishes, the flour sacks and fruit cellars of the homes and hotels in Salonica. It is a Herculean task.

Our party, personally escorted by Captain Turner, formerly of the British Army, and Captain Jacovo, a capable Greek engineer, with an autobus for the students and the automobiles for the older guests, traversed historic ground

Exhibition Importance

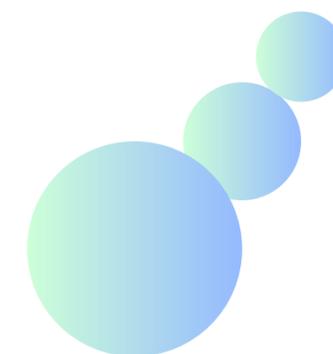

Purpose of the Exhibition:

- Celebrates 100 years of Anatolia College in Thessaloniki
- Highlights the College's vision for the future
- Acts as a bridge between past achievements and future aspirations

Anatolia College

SITUATION, highlands of Asia Minor, sixty miles from Samsoun, on Black Sea.

STUDENTS IN ATTENDANCE, 225, from over fifty different towns.

FIELD OF INFLUENCE, 80,000 square miles.

OBJECT, to raise up pure and liberally educated men as leaders.

YEARLY RUNNING EXPENSES, $14,000, of which students pay $10,000.

INCOME FROM ENDOWMENTS, $1,300. Whole endowment, $40,000, of which amount $7,000 has just been added.

FROM UNCERTAIN SOURCES, average $1,000, leaving shortage of $1,700.

URGENT PRESENT NEEDS

1. TO MEET DEFICITS AND OBLIGATIONS, $3,500. Immediate and pressing need.
2. TO HABILITATE SELF HELP INDUSTRIAL DEPARTMENT so that eighty instead of thirty young men can work their way through college, $6,000. From the Self Help come the strongest and best men. Little aid is given otherwise. This sum not only adds fifty students, but enables the department to be self-supporting in full. If some person or persons would furnish this equipment and name the department, it would be a worthy memorial.
3. FOR ONE PROFESSORSHIP, $10,000, the income of which sustains a native professor.

WANTED, $20,000 in all to accomplish in that land a work that would cost from ten to twenty times as much in this country.

The matter is thus laid before friends. This statement alone must constitute the appeal. Any one wishing to help should remit to F. H. Wiggin, 14 Beacon Street, Boston, Rooms A. B. C. F. M., and also inform the subscriber.

CHARLES C. TRACY,
President of Anatolia College, 576 Washington Street
